Kannamapet crematorium to be gas powered

By Our Staff Reporter

The electricity powered Kannamapet crematorium in T. Nagar is to be converted into a gas powered one.

The renovation cost is estimated at Rs 3 crores.

According to a Corporation official, electric crematoriums are expensive to maintain and faults take longer to repair. He said that gas crematoriums are cheaper and easier to maintain. Currently, there are three units within Kannamapet burial ground, one of which is maintained by the Jain community. Of the remaining two units that are maintained by the city corporation, one is non-functional.

The unit that is not functional now will be divided into two with a furnace each, and would be powered by Liquefied Petroleum Gas (LPG).

The crematorium will also have a renovated space for performing the final rites in the place of the building that is now being used, said the official. Along with the conversion, landscaping work will also be undertaken to improve the ambience.

The maintenance of the crematorium will be handed over to Coimbatore-based Isha Foundation after the conversion.

Unsanitary conditions prevail in T. Nagar bus terminus

The old toilets and urinals in T. Nagar bus terminus were demolished a couple of years back. But the spot is still misused as an open urinal by commuters, nearby vendors and passers-by. After the recent rains, water has been stagnating in the bus terminus.

CMRL to launch van service at metro stations

To improve last-mile connectivity for commuters, Chennai Metro Rail Ltd. (CMRL) will soon begin operating a fleet of air-conditioned vans from stations to nearby localities.

CMRL has floated tenders to identify an operator who can own, operate and maintain the vans. For a start, CMRL has planned to operate four 14-seater vans from Alandur metro station to DLF, Porur, mainly for IT employees. "We decided to start with Alandur station as we received many requests from IT employees working in and around Porur saying that they were unable to use metro service due to lack of connectivity to their offices. The route for these vans will be fixed," the official said.At Alandur metro, which is the elevated transit hub connecting the two corridors of Phase 1, there will be a van available every 15 minutes.

"The charge (for the van service) is yet to be fixed but it is likely to be around Rs. 20," the official said. The service will be extended to other stations depending on the Alandur experiment.

Last-mile connectivity has been a major issue for CMRL to attract more commuters. In the last few months, bicycle rental was introduced at nine stations while motorcycle rental, small buses, buggy services and tie-ups with cab aggregators were done for 16 stations.

Mob attacks two on suspicion of being child-lifters

By Our Staff Reporter

T. Nagar police arrested 3 persons on July 2 in connection with the mob assault on two youths from Odisha in Kamarajar Street, T. Nagar, who were suspected to be child-lifters.

Local residents said many who ganged up to beat the two youths were passersby and did not even know why they assaulted them.

The prime accused has been identified as Balamurugan (24).

P. Aravindan (DCP, T. Nagar) said that Balamurugan was arrested for instigating the mob attack on the evening of July 1 and spreading false news about the purported child-lifters.

The victims were identified as Gopal Sahoo and Binod Vikari.

They are undergoing treatment in a local hospital.

According to a local shopkeeper, the victims were chased by the crowd and pinned down in front of his shop.

He said that there were more than 50 persons in the mob.

According to the police, the victims were daily wage workers residing in a narrow lane near Tiruvalluvar Salai.

Suspicion that they were child lifters arose when they were seen with a child living in the neighbourhood.

Sometime just before 9 p.m the boy was seen running towards his mother and dropped a ten-rupee note when Sahoo and Vikari saw him. They reportedly picked up the boy, handed him the money, and put him down.

A young man in the locality saw them and asked the boy's mother whether the family knew the duo. As she replied in the negative, the man immediately conveyed his "concern" to his relative Balamurugan, who alerted others and stopped Sahoo and Vikari, the police said. The two sensed danger and tried to flee, but the crowd gave chase and pinned them down, a senior officer investigating the case said.

Trouble in signal system affects metro service for 8 hours

By Our Staff Reporter

Intermittent problems in the signaling system affected metro rail service for close to 8 hours on June 30.

Metro rail technicians restored normalcy by 2 p.m.

The services were delayed as trains were forced to travel at slow speeds.

An official at Ashok Nagar metro station told this reporter that the problem arose in the signaling system between Central Metro and Arumbakkam stations. The issue threw the train schedule out of gear putting commuters to a lot of inconvenience.

Announcements were made at stations about the delay in schedule to alert waiting passengers.

The commuters were a confused lot as there was discrepancy in the route and time between the announcement made at the station and the train that arrived at the station.

App helps cops curb inter-state robberies

In an attempt to curb inter-state robberies, Chennai police have expanded the use of their FACETAGR app to other Southern states.

The FACETAGR app was first adopted in October 2017 by T. Nagar police station in the city.

With FACETAGR, once a suspect is scanned, it generates details about the person including the cases that have been registered against him/her and the police station the person comes under. After the scanning is complete, further steps are taken to deal with the criminals.

According to police sources, so far only Pondicherry Crime Record Bureau has provided the criminal data. Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, Kerala and Karnataka are yet to provide the details. Currently, the database has records of 80,000 criminals. This app will help police departments find details of a person who belongs to another State.

Access to this technology has been given to all beat policemen.

Residents meet owners of commercial establishments

Since T. Nagar turned into a commercial hub decades ago, residents have been feeling the heat not only over traffic and parking woes, but because of issues like lack of space for pedestrians, garbage clearance and overflow from storm water drains. Residents met businessmen including owners of textile and gold establishments in T. Nagar on June 30 to highlight problems like encroachments, irresponsible garbage disposal and parking woes. Residents urged the businessmen to exhibit social responsibility. B. Kannan (a long-time resident of Rangan Street and Secretary of T. Nagar Residents Welfare Association) said that there is no space to move about in T. Nagar today, where as a kid he used to play cricket on North Usman Road.

He said that with commercial buildings coming up in residential areas, storm water drains are getting clogged with plastic, kitchen waste and other garbage. He said that despite a flyover, a leading textile showroom managed to get permission for an 8-storeyed structure to be re-built. "In spite of the fire, no lessons have been learned. Due to the underground work in the reconstruction site, those living in the nearby building feel the tremors daily but there is no response from the owner or the administration," Kannan added.

Businessmen and representatives from Jeyachandran Textiles, Pothys, Chennai Silks and GRT, who attended the meeting, promised to do their best to resolve the issues.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rains cause inundation in streets

Sir, Many streets in T, Nagar were inundated after the heavy rains recently.

The picture shows heavy waterlogging at the junction of Lodhi Khan Street and Raman Street after the heavy rains on the night of July 4.

Amidst the Smart City hype, this is the state of roads after even short spells of heavy rain. Jayakumar, T. Nagar

Work at construction site affects residents at night

Sir, A building, purportedly for a jewellery showroom, was under construction since 2013 at the junction of Thanikachalam Road and Bhagavandam Street, T. Nagar. After construction for a couple of years, which caused lot of hardship to nearby residents due to the noise and air pollution, work was abandoned. It has now been restarted and we hear that a new hotel is to come up at the location instead of the jewellery showroom planned earlier. The work goes on for 24 hours causing deafening noise at night disturbing the sleep, peace and tranquility of the neighbourhood.

The workers are urinating in the open leading to unsanitary conditions. I appeal to the authorities concerned to stop the work at night for the benefit of the nearby residents. R. Nimeshika, T. Nagar.

Another counter needed to issue free bus passes to senior citizens

Sir, MTC issues free bus passes and tokens to senior citizens on a quarterly basis.

The senior citizens need to bring their original Aadhaar card and copies to obtain fresh/renewed free bus passes and tokens. For every quarter, the passes are issued from the 21st of the last month of the previous quarter to the 30th of the next month (in effect, for 40 days) for free travel for 3 months. But in T. Nagar bus terminus there is only one counter to issue free passes.

Due to this, often there is a long queue forcing many to come several times to get the free passes.

I appeal to MTC to open another window in T. Nagar terminus for issuing the free passes/tokens to senior citizens. V. S. Narayanaswamy, Motilal Street, T. Nagar
