Unapproved plot owners to be penalized

By Our Staff Reporter

Tamilnadu Govt. is contemplating levying penalties on unapproved plot owners who have not submitted regularization applications by Nov. 3.

As per the communication received from the office of the Commissioner of Municipal administration, owners who submit the applications within six months of Nov. 3, will have to pay 10% regularization charges as penalty.

For those submitting it in the 6-12 month period, the penalty will be 25% and for delay of over one year, the penalty will be 50%.

There will no changes in the rate of development charges as specified in the Government Order dated Oct. 22, 2018.

No new plots will be considered for regularization after Nov. 3. and such cases will come under the mainstream of layout approval.

The government had introduced the scheme in May, 2017 for plot owners to regularize unapproved layouts and plots.

Those interested may register their names by Nov. 25.

Dr. Vijay Naik (PNR Society for Rehabilitation, Gujarat) will be available for consultation.

He conducts such camps all over India, and this is his 47th camp in Chennai.

Dr. Vijay told Mambalam Times that he has developed a non-invasive external scientific treatment using polycentric knee brace, a substitute for total knee replacement surgery for persons suffering from acute osteoarthritis in the knees.

He said that there is no need for hospitalization to perform the painless fitting of the brace.

He said that the knee brace is a simple weight bearing device consisting of a mechanical joint attached to it. The brace is designed to transfer body weight from the anatomical knee joint to the mechanical knee joint to help decrease pain, provide support, ease symptoms of nerve compression and position the joints correctly to prevent further deterioration of the knee joints.

On regular use, it also helps the body mechanism to refill the damaged cartilage as well as correct the deformities.

The brace allows one to do all the regular activities without pain like sitting cross-legged, driving, using Indian toilets, climbing stairs and running.

Persons suffering from osteoarthritis are welcome to attend the camp.

More details can be had in 90030 51000 and 94445 20383.

he and his family were stranded in Chennai and begged for some money which he promised to return after reaching his home town. My wife immediately cautioned me against giving any money and advised me to move on. The stranger parted once he realised that the game was up. On reaching home, when I contacted my colleague, he said he did not have any relative by the name Rajendran. I am writing this letter just to caution the public of tactics employed by strangers to cheat people, especially senior citizens who are vulnerable targets. V. S. Jayaraman, T. Nagar

Corporation should start 'No plastic bag' campaign
 Sir, Chennai Corporation has directed zonal officers to conduct regular meetings with Residents' Welfare Associations and traders regarding switchover to non-plastic alternatives. I appeal to Corporation officials to make it mandatory for commercial establishments like Saravana Stores and Pothys to use only cloth bags with immediate effect. V. S. Property tax burden
 Sir, There has been a hue and cry over the erratic revision of property tax. When people are suffering from price rise, inflation and unemployment problems, the sudden and abrupt increase of property tax by 100% to 200% will further increase their hardship. Earlier assurances of maximum 50% revision by the State Govt. have been flouted.

I appeal to the Govt. not to punish the owners with such high rates in revision of property tax and to keep them under 50%. N. Rajaggopalan, West Mambalam

Appeal to remove urinals in Pinjala Subramanian Street
 Sir, The unsanitary condition of the open urinals in Pinjala Subramanian Street, T. Nagar is a health hazard. The urinals are not maintained properly and produce an offensive smell throughout the day.

The urinals are predominantly used by train commuters and persons working in nearby shops and street vendors.

The residents of the street and the devotees who regularly visit the Saibaba Temple on the street are the most affected.

I appeal to Chennai Corporation to remove the open urinals from the road. V. S. Narayanaswamy, Motilal Street, T. Nagar

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Abandoned timekeeper booth in 11th Avenue used as urinal

Sir, The timekeeper booth installed by Tamilnadu State Transport Corporation (TNSTC) in 11th Avenue, near KFC, Ashok Nagar has remained unused since 2010.

During festivals like Deepavali, a mobile timekeeper booth is used to regulate the buses that ply to Pondicherry from this spot.

As the booth is lying unused, passersby have converted it into a urinal.

The unsanitary condition of the booth has become a health hazard to nearby residents.

The stinking and unused booth is also an eyesore,

Advertisement banners and unsavory cinema posters are stuck on the booth.

On my representation, the power supply to the booth was disconnected by TNEB.

But, my efforts to contact the TNSTC to remove the booth have been in vain. S. Kalyanaraman, 11th Avenue, Ashok Nagar, Ph: 98400 22218

CMDA should seek public opinion for re-classification of land

Sir, The Chennai Metropolitan Development Corporation Authority (CMDA) from time to time issues re-classification notification for lands based on the application made by owners to convert from residential to commercial, institutional to commercial, agriculture to commercial and so on.

In T. Nagar, the re-classification of land use has become such a quiet affair that no one knows how the residential area turns into commercial overnight.

The re-classification is supposed to be done after due verification of the land and the documents, suitability of the site, accessibility, compatibility with the adjoining developments, impact on the environment and more. However, the residents living in the vicinity of the property and the public in general remain unaware of the re-classification until some construction activity is started in the plot. Re-classification of land as commercial in any area, more particularly in a residential area will have a significant impact on the environmental and the civic resources and infrastructure.

If the CMDA's re-classification has not evoked any public opinion thus far, it is mainly because of poor dissemination of information. Residents will definitely react if they come to know of a change in the land use that could impact their living. So, in order to ensure total transparency, the CMDA, besides inserting advertisements in dailies, must also install a notification board on the plot to seek the views of the nearby residents.

Further, per se, the re-classification from one zone to another, more particularly residential to any other zone, should not be entertained in view of the huge impact on the environment and non-availability of infrastructure. V. S. Jayaraman, 31, Motilal Street, T. Nagar

Beware of tricksters using emotional tactics

Sir, During a recent errand to buy vegetables with my wife, a person whom I could not recall meeting before, accosted me and said he used to be my colleague at work.

He introduced himself as Rajendran, and asked me to recall names of co-employees. When I mentioned a few names, he said he was a relative of one of them. He then started pleading that he and his family were stranded in Chennai and begged for some money which he promised to return after reaching his home town. My wife immediately cautioned me against giving any money and advised me to move on. The stranger parted once he realised that the game was up. On reaching home, when I contacted my colleague, he said he did not have any relative by the name Rajendran. Anna Varsity introduces exam, revaluation reforms

By Our Staff Reporter

In the aftermath of the revaluation scam, Anna University has introduced a slew of examination reforms, including distribution of answer keys, striking out of blank pages and cross-checking 30% of evaluated answer scripts, the university told the Madras High Court recently.

G. V. Uma, former Controller of Examinations, and other faculty members were suspended for their alleged role in the said scam. Besides an ongoing Directorate of Anti-Corruption and Vigilance (DVAC) probe, an internal committee formed to probe the scam found that answer scripts of students were manipulated in evaluation centers. Answer scripts provided to students contain 44 pages. Students involved in the scam left the last few pages of the scripts blank and scamsters filled these pages with relevant answers during evaluation. According to the new assessment schedule introduced by the university, students must strike out all unwritten pages of the answer scripts and exam hall supervisors have been told not to accept answer scripts with blank pages.

Also, a proposal has been made to remove the front page of answer scripts which contains the student's registration number before handing them over to the evaluating faculty.

In its affidavit submitted to the court, Anna University said answer keys for all the subject question papers were provided to faculty so that the number of students applying for revaluation comes down. Besides this, the chairman of the evaluation center should cross-check at least 30% of answer scripts evaluated by examiners and the number of examiners under a chairman has been reduced from 17 to 10 now, the university submitted.

Further, answer scripts with a difference in the original and re-evaluated score of more than 15 will be scrutinized, the affidavit said.

A 40-day deadline has been set for the Controller of Examinations and text the re-evaluation process and release the results via website and text messages.
