"THE SILENT SKIN STORIES BELOW THE WAIST"

Breaking the Silence on an Overlooked Women's Health Issue

The vulva, an integral yet often neglected part of the female body, is prone to a wide range of skin disorders collectively referred to as vulval dermatoses. Due to embarrassment, lack of awareness, and social stigma, many women delay seeking medical advice sometimes for years leading to unnecessary discomfort and complications.

Why Vulval Health Matters

The skin of the vulva is unique. It is thinner, more sensitive, and constantly exposed to friction, moisture, and hormonal influences. Even minor disturbances can lead to significant symptoms, affecting a woman's quality of life, sexual health, and psychological well-being.

Common Symptoms Women Experience

Vulval dermatoses can present in various ways, including:

Persistent itching or burning, Pain or soreness, Discoloration (white, red, or dark patches), Thickening or thinning of skin, Cracks, erosions, or ulcers, Discomfort during urination or sexual activity. These symptoms should never be ignored, especially if they persist beyond a few weeks.

Common Types of Vulval Dermatoses

Inflammatory Conditions: Lichen sclerosus – Often seen in postmenopausal women; causes white patches, itching, and scarring if untreated. Lichen planus – May involve the vulva and vagina, sometimes associated with oral lesions. Eczema and contact dermatitis – Triggered by soaps, sanitary products, tight clothing, or fragrances. Infective Dermatoses, Fungal infections (candidiasis). Bacterial infections, Viral infections such as herpes, Pigmentary Disorders, Vitiligo, Post-inflammatory hyperpigmentation, Premalignant and Malignant Conditions, Vulval intraepithelial neoplasia (VIN), Vulval cancer- Early diagnosis is crucial, as chronic dermatoses may increase cancer risk.

Why Diagnosis Is Often Delayed

Many women assume vulval symptoms are - normal- or due to poor hygiene. Cultural taboos, self-medication, and fear of examination also contribute to delayed care. However, early diagnosis leads to excellent outcomes in most cases.

How Are Vulval Dermatoses Diagnosed?

A dermatologist or gynecologist may recommend clinical examination Like Dermoscopy, Patch testing (for allergies), Skin biopsy (when required). A biopsy is a simple, safe procedure and can be life-saving in suspicious cases.

Simple Vulval Care Tips

- Use plain water or mild, fragrance-free cleansers
- Avoid harsh soaps, douches, and scrubs
- Wear loose, cotton underwear
- Do not self-medicate or ignore persistent symptoms
- Seek medical advice early

A Message to Women

Vulval discomfort should never be suffered in silence. Vulval skin deserves proper care, and many vulval dermatoses are common, treatable conditions. Open conversations and timely medical consultation can reduce suffering, improve well-being, and empower women to take charge of their intimate health with confidence and dignity.

Myths

- X Vulvar itching is not always due to infection
- X It is not always sexually transmitted
- X Suffering in silence is not normal
- ✓ Early treatment prevents complications
- ✓ Vulvar skin deserves the same care as facial skin

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Appeal to reopen pedestrian crossing on 4th Avenue

Sir, I am 75 years old and reside in AI Block, near Shanthi Colony, Anna Nagar.

The crossing for pedestrians in the median on 4th Avenue (near 6th and 8th Main Road junctions, Anna Nagar) has been closed with a barricade by traffic police.

Residents living in the vicinity have no option but to either walk a long distance up to 5th Avenue junction or 3rd Main Road junction to cross the road, causing hardship to senior citizens like me. As the opening is blocked, many pedestrians risk their lives by jumping over the median to cross the road.

I appeal to traffic police to re-open the space in the median for the benefit of pedestrians. R. Thangavel, AI Block 3rd Street, Anna Nagar.

Cow blocks way on New Avadi Road

Sir, Much has been debated and reported on stray cattle problem on public roads but with no end to it.

During the peak hour in the evening on March 4, a cow posed grave danger to motorists on New Avadi Road (near Gujji Naicken Street junction, East Anna Nagar).

This photo I took at 5.30 p.m shows the cow standing steadfast close to the median. Despite the blaring horns from passing vehicles, it refused to move as if glued to the spot.

This went on for almost 20 minutes after which a biker prodded it with his helmet and forced it off the road. This has become a routine nuisance on avenue roads and main roads.

I appeal to Chennai Corporation for stringent action against cattle owners. M. Nagendran, 75, Gujji Main Road, Kumaran Nagar, Anna Nagar East.

Slab blocks way for pedestrians

Sir, A foot-high concrete slab on the median of 2nd Avenue blocks the way for pedestrians along the zebra crossing at 6th Main Road junction, Anna Nagar.

As it poses danger, I appeal to Chennai Corporation to remove the slab from the spot and level the surface. Dr. Salim Ali, AB Block 5th Street, Anna Nagar, Ph: 78757 59455

Appeal for speed breakers at road junction

Sir, There is heavy traffic during peak hours at the junction of 2nd Avenue Extension, Mahatma Gandhi Road and G Block 12th Street (East Anna Nagar).

As there are no traffic signals, vehicles speed across the junction making it unsafe for pedestrians (particularly senior citizens, women and children) to cross the roads at the junction. I request traffic police to install speed breakers at the road junction to slow down vehicles and also paint zebra lines for the benefit of pedestrians. Robinson Devaprasad, G Block 12th Street, East Anna Nagar.
